Editorial Teasing Can Be Cruel

One of the most embarras

and thoughtless things that you can do to a person is to tease him cruelly. Often you do not realize the effect it has on the other person and even though he doesn't let you know it, you may be making him feel miserable. And then again, others listening may not take your teasing in the manner you meant it as in this situation: Jan and Sally were talking among a group of people.

Jan said, "You'd better hurry up and take that aspirin, you pill addict." Of course Sally knew that Jan was teasing but others around them that heard it didn't. Before long it was all over the school that Jan and Sally were part of a ring of dope peddlers. By innocent teasing at the wrong piaces, Jan and Sally's reputation was blemished. Sometimes a teacher will be teasing a student not knowing that the student is taking it seriously. This might often lead to other problems that could have been avoided had the teasing not been done. Before teasing someone person should know how the one being teased will take it. Everybody's nature is not always suitable to take teasing. They ships can be destroyed. important than a good laugh, and we should all make it a A cherry tree in bloom;
